(Photo taken Jan. 19, 2022 by Annika Hom | Mission Local)January 19, 2022 The restaurant space at 23rd and Bryant Streets tried it all, to no avail: Soul food, Korean/Mexican/Chinese cuisine. But a new "food service" business declared its takeover this month, and could be the one to finally stick. Aarna Kitchen filed a business permit in January for the 2848 23rd St. location that formerly housed El Coreano Korean Mexican Food, city data shows. So far little information can be found on Aarna Kitchen or its listed proprietor, G & Gr Inc. What's for sure is that Aarna Kitchen will be the latest culinary venture to try its luck at 2848 23rd St. in the last seven years. The last owner tried two different cuisines: Asian/Mexican fusion and southern food. To read the full article, click here. At El Coreano, Fidel Contreras is the kind of restaurant manager who offers you on-the-house horchata until you finally give in — and damn, it's good. As it turns out, it's his creation, one of many new recipes he has come up with for El Coreano, the fusion restaurant that serves Korean, Chinese and Mexican fare at 2848 23rd St., where the 41-year-old is a manager, bartender, waiter, janitor, painter, fixer and more. He works seven days, including four double shifts, each week. Contreras, who's worked in the industry since he was 15, said El Coreano is his life — and he loves it. "I start here early in the morning and then very late at night go home, sleep, come back again. But it's fun for me," he said. He joined the restaurant several years ago when it was Buttermilk Southern Kitchen, which closed early last year and was re-imagined into a Korean-Mexican-Chinese-style restaurant with the same owner. "'You know what, here's a bunch of spices for you guys. Create something,'" he recalled the owner saying. "Coming up with that idea kind of saved us through the really bad times," he said. Residents have liked the new menu. "To be honest, it's a headache having three menus. It's like having three kitchens," he said, referring to the Chinese menu, the Korean menu and the Mexican menu. And it's tough work: Three people work in the El Coreano kitchen, while he runs the front of house by himself. Contreras immigrated to the United States when he was around 9 or 11 years old and moved into the Mission on Alabama Street to live with his older sister. He spent his days in school and his nights in the dish pit and made $70 a day, and then worked his way up. "I just stayed in the industry," he said. "Now, you know, I'm much older and more mature, and I just love people, and I love talking to people." In 1967, Manuel Capo and his family opened a furniture store in Miami called El Dorado, named for the boat on which they'd escaped from Cuba. Today, it's a company with hundreds of employees and multiple stores across Florida. Find one near you and learn more about the business.Visit the El Dorado Furniture WebsiteThe easiest way to find your local El Dorado Furniture store is to visit the company's website at Eldoradofurniture.com. On the top right corner of the homepage, you'll see a tab that says "Our Stores." Click on it, and you'll arrive at a page that provides you with two ways to find the store closest to you. First, you can put in your ZIP code, and click "find your store." The website will take you to the page for the closest store and tell you how many miles away it is. The other option is to simply look at the list of stores provided on the "Our Stores" page. They're separated by county, and the page also lists any new stores that are opening soon.View Store DetailsEl Dorado Furniture has stores in seven Florida counties as of February 2019, including Miami-Dade, Broward, Palm Beach, Seminole, Pinellas, Lee and Collier. Most are located in Broward and Miami-Dade. Choose the store that is closest to you from the list, and click on the name. The site will take you to a page for the store that provides important information, like the store's address, hours and phone number. There is also an interactive map for each store.Shop OnlineLike many retailers these days, you don't have to find your local store to shop for furniture. You can also shop online at the El Dorado Furniture website for everything you need for your home. You can also browse and save your favorite items for later or so you can look for them in stores. In addition to regular items for sale, the online shop offers sales much like you'd find in stores.What Does El Dorado Furniture Sell?Of course, El Dorado Furniture sells furniture for practically every room in the house. Shop for beds, nightstands and dressers for your bedroom. Check out dining room sets and desks for your home office. El Dorado has a large selection of leather furniture and sofas, chairs and accent furniture for your living room. You can even shop for some home accessories, like clocks, rugs, mirrors, candleholders, wall art and other decor items.History of El Dorado FurnitureAs of February 2019, El Dorado Furniture is one of the larger and more well-known Hispanic-owned furniture companies in the United States, notes the retailer's website. It all started in 1967 when founder Manuel Capo fled Cuba with two of his seven sons. He was an experienced furniture maker and opened the first store with a $10,000 loan from the Small Business Administration. Capo learned the furniture trade from his father, Simon, who opened his own furniture retail and manufacturing store in Cuba before Castro took over all private enterprise. While Capo died in 2009, his sons and many of his grandchildren still keep the company alive today. So far, there's little information on Aarna Kitchen or its listed proprietor, G & Gr Inc. What's for sure is that Aarna Kitchen will be the latest culinary venture to try its luck at 2848 23rd St. in the last seven years. The last owner tried two different cuisines: Asian/Mexican fusion, and southern food. The new eatery will replace El Coreano, known for its unique offerings of Mexican/Korean/Chinese food and its friendly, earnest staff. El Coreano's voicemail alludes to a temporary holiday closure from Dec. 24 to Jan. 4. However, the restaurant never peeled off the brown paper lining the windows, nor opened its doors to customers again. The Mexican/Korean/Chinese eatery would have celebrated its one-year anniversary in January, but for now it's adios, annyeonghi gaseyo and zai jian. Mission Local reached out to El Coreano and one of its staff for comment. This article will be updated if and when they respond. Before they briefly served food as El Coreano, Miguel de Ocampo and Jaime Chavez dished out southern flavors as Buttermilk Southern Kitchen. That lasted from 2015 to January 2020, and at one time, the owners offered each of the various cuisines. Prior to OCampo and Chavez's run, the space operated as a Launderworld Bryant from 1993 to 2015, crowning it the longest business run at the location in recent years according to city data. While little is known about Aarna Kitchen so far, it's clear El Coreano's closure will make an impact on customers who were fond of its manager Fidel Contreras. Multiple Yelp reviewers praised Contreras for "impeccable service" and an amicable attitude, and others highlighted his eager habit of gifting customers free samples of horchata. Our own reporter's interactions with Contreras corroborated this earnest manner: "Contreras is the kind of restaurant manager who offers you on-the-house horchata until you finally give in — and damn, it's good." As we previously reported, Contreras joined the restaurant when it was Buttermilk Southern Kitchen. With El Coreano under the same ownership, Contreras received the greenlight to make up his own recipes, such as the horchata he constantly pushed on customers. He embodied what it meant to be a restaurant caretaker, piling on roles as waiter, bartender, janitor, painter, and more, logging hours every day of the week. "I start here early in the morning and then very late at night go home, sleep, come back again. But it's fun for me," Contreras said.
